

Crimes in Broad Daylight

On Tiananmen Square, uniformed and plain-clothes police brutally beat innocent practitioners (regardless of their age and gender) in broad daylight. They have held knives to practitioners' throats and guns to their heads. It is not difficult to imagine what goes on behind closed doors.

Police holding a knife to the throat of a harmless practitioner (AP)

Two policemen beat a female practitioner (AP)

Not allowed to speak the truth (AP)